"The Stranger" is a masterpiece of existentialist literature, exploring the themes of absurdity, isolation, and the struggle to find meaning in life. This is a book that will stay with you long after you've turned the last page."

- The New York Times

With its cold, detached prose and compelling narrative, "The Stranger" explores the challenges of an existential mindset like death, and the nature of human existence. This is a book that rewards careful reading and contemplation.

The Guardian

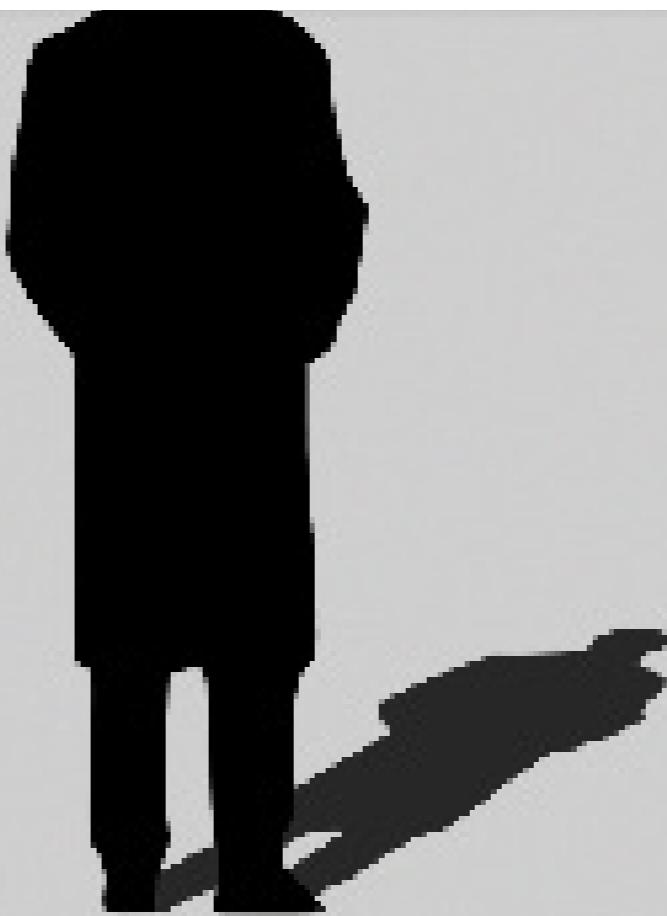

"The Stranger" is a book that defies easy categorization. On the surface, it's a simple story about a man who kills another man and must face the consequences. But beneath the surface, it's a profound exploration of the human condition and the search for meaning in a world that often seems senseless and cruel.

SUMMARY

"The Stranger" is a novel by Albert Camus, originally published in 1942. The novel tells the story of Meursault, a French Algerian who kills an Arab man and then struggles to come to terms with his own life and the meaning of his actions. And their struggle to come to terms with his own life.

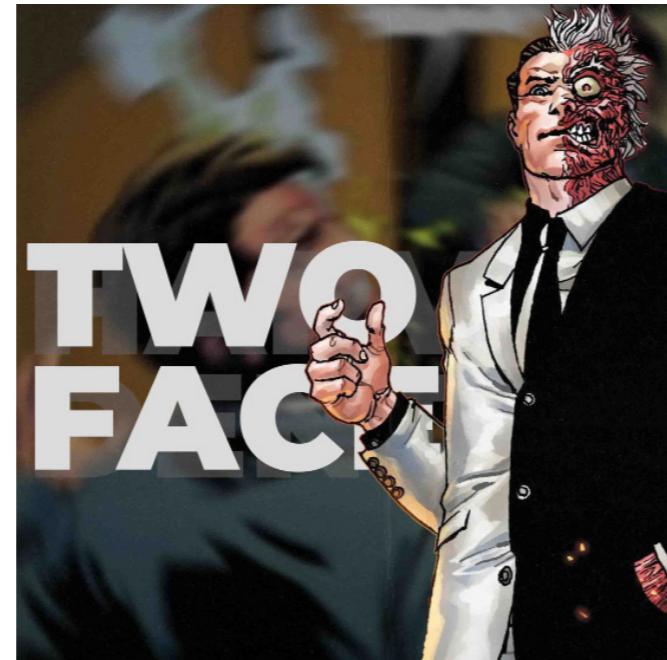

The novel begins with Meursault receiving news of his mother's death. He attends her funeral, but he remains detached from the proceedings. After the funeral, he begins a relationship with Marie, a former co-worker but he is unable to feel much emotion for her.
